I read Richard Flanagan's THE UNKNOWN TERRORIST after reading his incredibly moving novel THE NARROW ROAD TO THE DEEP NORTH for which the author received the Booker Prize. I did not expect another novel of that quality--after all Melville only wrote one MOBY DICK--but I certainly found this one, published in the United States in 2006, a novel certainly worth my time.

Flanagan has described these early novels as 'soul histories'. His fourth novel was The Unknown Terrorist (2006), which The New York Times called "stunning... a brilliant meditation upon the post-9/11 world".

Richard Flanagan - Wikipedia

I haven't read any Richard Flanagan before so cannot compare his writing style in The Unknown Terrorist to other works. I suspect others would be more my cup of tea though. The Unknown Terrorist is a fairly standard thriller which employs the mass media and an unscrupulous journalist as its evil.
